Science Council of New York City

- ✚ Are you using technology to teach Science?
- ✚ Are you incorporating the 3Dimensions of Science in your teaching?
- ✚ Are you starting to use the NYSSLS or NGSS to guide your instruction?
- ✚ Do you have a great project/lesson that helps to make your students excited about learning SCIENCE?

We Want You!

The Science Council of New York City is looking for individuals to present at our Annual Conference on Saturday, April 6, 2019 at Stuyvesant High School in Manhattan. The conference starts at 8:00 am and ends at 4:00 pm.

Go to our website: www.sconyc.org or <https://goo.gl/forms/0HLDrOFntvz1VUL2> to apply to be a presenter.

Want to attend without presenting? That's okay too! Registration will open in early January, so keep your eyes open for the e-mail and check our website www.sconyc.org for updates. If you have any questions, contact Presenter Chair Mary at secretary@sconyc.org or Conference Chair Jack DePalma at conferencechair@sconyc.org.
